My experience includes a mix of Research, Concept Development, Business Development, Presales, Systems Architecture, and Software Development. I have held employment with Silicon Vendors, OEM Manufacturers, Third-Party Vendors, and Network Operators. I am currently employed within an Innovation Group focused on identifying and developing new technologies and applications 3-5 years ahead. Experienced from large organizations to smaller startup environments. Known as a creative professional with broad skills meshing well into existing and new groups.

I am primarily seeking a strategic innovative position focusing on new emerging technologies, applications, and ideas. Would prefer a position involving client and vendor engagement and interaction. While my past experience has been heavily consumer electronics (CE) centric, I am open to various types of opportunities. I am driven by solving interesting problems and overcoming obstacles. As I have many interests, I prefer to take on opportunities that allow for a diverse set of activities and projects.

Please contact me with appropriate opportunities within your organization. I am available for both permanent full-time and consultant positions. For a more detailed representation of my skills and background, please review my attached resume. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Ari Kamlani
